

NUMBER 50

SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN.
TUESDAY, JUNE 23, 1885.
TIME TABLE FOR TRAINS.
DEPART SOUTH—6:40 A. M.; 12:25 P. M.;
DEPART NORTH—12:30 P. M.; 6:30 P. M.
ARRIVE FROM SOUTH—12:25 P. M.; 6:10 P. M.
POST OFFICE—South Main Street.
Open for letters, day and night.
Money orders—A. M. 10 to 4 P. M.
Delivery, Sunday—9:45 to 10:15 P. M.
SOUTHERN EXPRESS OFFICE,
Russellville St.
Open 8 A. M. to 5 P. M.

SOCIALITIES.

Miss Henie Stevens is visiting relatives in Paduch.
Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Grissam have returned from Dawson.
Mr. P. B. Richardson, of Pembroke, was in the city yesterday.
Miss Mollie Layne, of Fairview, is visiting Mrs. Polk Casler.
Miss Mamie Thompson left yesterday on a visit to Trenton.
Mrs. J. H. Pitts has gone to Richmond, Va., to visit relatives.
Hon. M. C. Hay, of Greenville, was in the city Saturday and Sunday.
Mr. Thos. W. Long has moved into his new cottage on Clarksville street.
Miss Gertie Carter, of South Christian, is visiting Mrs. V. M. Metcalfe.
Miss Annie Kennedy went to Bowling Green last week to visit friends.
Miss Matie Kennedy is visiting friends in her old home, Evansville, Indiana.
Miss Jessie Carr, of Princeton, is visiting the family of Mr. Wm. Trice on South Main.
Mrs. J. L. Dagg left last week for a visit of several weeks to her sister in Baltimore.
Prof. Aug. G. Reicher, of Eminence, is in the city visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. C. E. West.
Miss Addie Hewerton, of Nashville, is visiting Miss Mattie Johnson, South Main street.
W. M. Carr and wife have gone on a visit to relatives, near Hopkinsville.
Miss Minnie Dalton, of Barnum Plains, Tenn., was in the city Saturday on a visit to her brothers.
Mrs. Clarence Anderson and her pretty little daughter, Miss Genevieve, have returned from a visit to Harrodsburg.
Mrs. Sarah Mason and Mrs. M. A. Mason, of Newstead, passed through the city yesterday, en route to Trenton.
Rev. J. L. Caldwell left this morning for Hopkinsville to attend a meeting of the Presbytery.—Bowling Green Times.
Mr. Weyman Meacham and his sister, Miss Sallie, of Fulton, Ky., are visiting Mr. L. P. Payne's family, this week.
Misses Willie Elliott and Olivia Thompson went down to Cadiz last Wednesday to visit relatives and friends. They were accompanied by Mr. Geo. V. Thompson.
Judge Casswell Bennett, of Smithland, a candidate for Appellate Judge, was in the city last week. The election does not take place until August, 1886.
Jimmie Spillman, accompanied his aunt, Mrs. Anderson, to Hopkinsville last week, where he will remain a few days and then leave for St. Louis to spend the balance of vacation with relatives there.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Murdoch Monday 29th.

James E. Murdoch, the great elocutionist, will give one of his magnificent entertainments at the Opera House next Monday night. Of him the Courier-Journal said on Apr. 29 last:
"The noblest Roman of them all, the greatest actor America has yet given to the stage, happily spared to us in his old age, reads at the Masonic Temple to-night. To see Mr. Murdoch is a memory for life; to hear him is a liberal education. His presence in the midst of us is both an honor and an opportunity. Although past three score and ten, he was the one great personality that redeemed the dramatic festival last year. And yet Mary Anderson was in the cast."
Sales by Buckner & Wooldridge, June 16 and 18 of 156 Hhds. tobacco as follows:
36 Hhds. medium and good leaf—$5 50 to 11 75.
24 Hhds. common leaf—$7 50 to 8 25.
29 Hhds. Medium and Good leaf—$6 25 to 8 00.
17 Hhds. common leaf—$5 00 to 6 00.
Market strong and full for all kinds.
The next issue of the South Kentuckian will be held back until Friday afternoon, in order to give a report of the hanging on that day.

HERE AND THERE.

Howe's sun time is the city standard.
Caulder's stock sale next Saturday.
Southern watermelons are in the market this week.
Spring chickens are getting plentiful at $2.50 a dozen.
Druggists and contribution envelopes always in stock at this office.
The finest selections of Wedding goods just received at this office.
As a Jeweler and optician M. D. Kelly has the largest practical experience.
Bring your job printing to the South Kentuckian office, where you can get the best of work at reasonable prices.
Rev. E. L. Powell has declined the call to the pastorate of the Christian church here. His church at Maysville would not give him up.
Mr. J. B. Dade has been appointed administrator of the late P. L. Torian. He leaves an estate worth about $3,000.
Polk Casler will sell 1 head of Jersey cattle next Saturday, all entitled to registration. Pedigrees furnished with each one.
Being anxious to reduce my Stock of Millinery goods, I will give great bargains in hats, bonnets, etc., for the remainder of the season.
MISS ALICE HAYES.

Mr. R. H. Holland has in his hands a $50 forfeit for a $100 running race against any horse in Christian, Todd, Trigg or Hopkins counties. Half-mile heats, best two in three.
Dr. J. B. Solomon has resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist church of this city. He will accept a call at Zion, Henderson county. His successor has not yet been determined on.—Owensboro Messenger.
Mr. Henry Landon, who was sent to the asylum at Hopkinsville six or seven weeks ago, returned to the city Saturday night restored in mind, but still weak physically. He is now with his family at Brewer's Mill.—Mayfield Democrat.
Isaiah H. Jones left for Frankfort yesterday to attend as a delegate to the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Good Samaritans, a colored benevolent order with a flourishing lodge in this city.
Wheat—what there is of it—is now ready for the sickle and some fields have already been cut. The crop will be mostly harvested this week, with anything like favorable weather.
The Keen Missionary Guild will meet at Mr. S. G. Buckner's Friday evening at 8 o'clock. There will be music, recitations, etc. Plenty of ice water and lemonade. 10 cents admission. Everybody invited.
The General Association of Kentucky Baptists will convene at Mayfield next Wednesday and continue three or four days. Rev. J. N. Presbridge, Rev. J. T. Barrow, Prof. J. W. Rust, Maj. J. O. Ferrell and others will attend from this city. They left yesterday.
In a card elsewhere Hon. L. T. Brasher declines to become a candidate for the Legislature. This leaves the Republican nominees, Mr. Breathitt, without opposition. Is there no Democrat in the county who is willing to lead his part in the coming race?
Major Crump was here last week to see the Carlisle Rifles drill, and on the strength of their performance offered them a position at the Philadelphia encampment of next month. The offer is now under consideration, but it is most probable there are not enough willing and free to go to make up a company. There is some talk of taking part of our company and part of the Hopkinsville company.—Henderson Journal.

The Hopkinsville South Kentuckian heads a notice of a game of base ball played in that city, "Dundes vs. Asylums." The asylum is the place for all dundes and baseballists, and as Hopkinsville has an asylum handy, we suggest that she rid herself of a great nuisance by placing all of the above named classes within its walls.—Union Local.
The rain storm in this city Saturday afternoon was the hardest that has been witnessed here for twenty years. There have been short showers as hard, but for 45 minutes the rain fell in a perfect deluge. The streets were flooded and some business houses had water running through them. In the flat near the gas house several colored families were flooded and had to move out in a wagon. The streets and gutters were washed out perfectly clean, and in this respect at least the rain was a God-send.
The plank walk in front of the colored Methodist church was washed away and lies in the street. The wind blew furiously but no damage was done in the city save that a tree here and there was blown down.
The surveying party began the work of surveying and locating the H. & C. Railroad yesterday. Maj. J. W. Robinson is in charge, assisted by Capt. J. H. Pitts and Capt. A. V. Townes. Capt. Pitts' engineering class also sends four young men—Norman Cox, Logan Feland, Hanson Dulin and Otto Anderson—to assist and obtain practical experience in surveying. Prof. C. H. Dietrich, Mr. W. J. Withers and one or two other gentlemen will also go along. The work will be begun at the city limits and after to-day the engineers will camp out. We will be able in a few days to tell something of the route to be taken.

Company D. Disbands.

All the companies of the Third Regiment of State Guards have been inspected within the last ten days, with the view to select the best four to go to the National encampment at Philadelphia. The following order has been issued by Col. Crump:
HEADQUARTERS
BOWLING GREEN, KY., June 17, '85.
No. 1. In pursuance to G. O. No. 1, the competitive inspection and drill has resulted as follows:
Co. F, Henderson, 58.3.
Co. B, Owensboro, 54.
Co. A, Bowling Green, 53.
Co. H, Mayfield, 46.
Co. D, Hopkinsville, 45.
Co. E, Glasgow, 39.
Co. C, Russellville, mustered out.
Co. G, Paducah, mustered out.
2. Cos. F, B, A, and H having been selected, will at once report to their headquarters their intention as to the Philadelphia trip.
3. The minimum number is fixed at 32—21 men in line, two guides, one quartermaster, two cooks and three commissioned officers. The maximum 40 men—32 in line, eight officers, guides, cooks, etc.
M. H. CRUMP,
Colonel Commanding.

The term of enlistment of the members of Co. D, expired on the 20th and Col. Crump came down to muster them out. They refused to surrender their uniforms until paid up in full by the State and the company was not formally mustered out. The State owes for the last "campaign," about $11 to each man. Col. Crump ordered that each member be honorably discharged whenever the State's property is surrendered and thus the matter stands.
The competitive drill for the prizes also came off as announced. The gold medal belonging to the Company, worth $25, was won by Jas. F. Garly, who becomes its permanent owner. Sergeant Garly has won a medal most of the time since it was bought, as the best drilled soldier.
The Company cap, worth $25, was won by the second platoon and presented by them to Lieut. E. R. Cook.
It was decided that eight of the members would go with the Henderson Company to Philadelphia, leaving next Saturday. They will be gone about two weeks. The following soldiers will go:
Lieut. E. R. Cook, Sergt. J. J. Henry, Sergt. J. F. Garly, C. M. Lacy, John E. Campbell, W. T. Cooper, J. L. Meyers, C. C. Slaughter. Each soldier who goes on this trip will be required to pay $5, which will be the only expense. An additional $2.50 is recommended for incidentals, but is not required.

The Scaffold Ready.

The scaffold to be used in the execution of Jordan Taylor is now being erected. It is located on the river bank in a vacant lot, and is about 75 or 100 yards northwest of the jail. The scaffold will be 11 feet high and will have a drop of about six feet. There will be a platform with a door 1 foot square hung by hinges underneath and held up by a bolt above. When all is ready the bolt will be shoved out and the door will drop from under the doomed man. The scaffold will be in an enclosure 25 x 25 feet, made of plank 16 feet high, into which 50 persons can be admitted. The crowd will have to content themselves with seeing the prisoner go from the jail to the scaffold, or take their chances on seeing from the roofs of adjoining houses or the tops of trees around the inclosure. The execution will take place at ten o'clock, A. M.

Dawson Springs.

The various hotels at Dawson are now rapidly filling up with those in search of health. There has been a change since last season and sporting characters are no longer infesting the town to the exclusion of other guests. There has been a marked improvement as one by one the licenses has expired and the saloons have had to quit business. Only two now remain and they will be closed the last of July. The guests now there are those who go to drink the water. The leading hotels are the Arenia, J. W. Pritchett, Manager; the Summit House, W. I. Hamby, proprietor; the Dawson Hotel, Mrs. I. Suel, proprietor; the Sandusky House, Dr. J. P. Cullon, proprietor, and Mrs. Cook's Hotel. Besides these there are several other smaller hotels and boarding houses where good accommodations can be had.
The manufacture of Dawson Salts is now being carried on regularly and shipments are made every day. The season has fairly opened and those in ill health will find Dawson one of the best resorts in the west.

Mess. S. & E. Oberdorfer, of Henderson, have purchased the stock of dry goods of the late firm of McElwaine Bros., of Trenton. They bought this stock at a bargain and intend to close it out at very low prices. These gentlemen are reliable, enterprising business men. If they are pleased with the locality and business outlook, and no doubt they will be, they will continue to carry on the business at Trenton, after they have closed out this stock.
The L. & A. T. Railroad has been graded to a point one mile northwest of Newstead. The company is having some trouble about securing the right of way through some farms, but this is one of the difficulties that all railroads have to encounter.

The ceiling to H. B. Garner's Drug Store will be 16 feet high—the highest in the city.

BASE BALL.

Asylums Again Victorious.

THE SHAMROCKS BEATEN.
On last Thursday the Shamrocks of this city were beaten by the Lunatics by a score of 40 to 20. The catcher of the Shamrocks had his finger knocked out of joint early in the game; otherwise the score might have been closer. The playing of Sensbach, Brackroge, Waller and Rodman for the Asylum club, and Tibbs and Garity for the Shamrocks was the feature of the game. The heavy batting of the Shamrocks was also noticeable. Below, we give the score:

ASYLUMS.	R	O	SHAMROCKS.	R	O
Line, P.	8	8	Line, P.	8	8
Stone, P.	5	5	Stone, P.	5	5
Robins, P.	5	5	Robins, P.	5	5
Triplet, P.	5	5	Triplet, P.	5	5
Valley, P.	5	5	Valley, P.	5	5
Brackroge, P.	5	5	Brackroge, P.	5	5
H. Sensbach, P.	5	5	H. Sensbach, P.	5	5
Seller, P.	5	5	Seller, P.	5	5
A. Sensbach, P.	5	5	A. Sensbach, P.	5	5
Total	107	107	Total	20	20

St. John's Day.

Every exertion is being made to make the Masonic celebration tomorrow a grand success. A large number of fine shots are expected to take part in the bird shooting. The game of ball promises to be the best ever seen in the city. "Quintine Jim" McKenzie will be on hand, and plenty to eat for all. Co. "D," K. S. G., has kindly agreed to take part in the grand parade. Let everybody go and give this good cause the encouragement it deserves. Remember it is for widows and orphans.
The railroads will give cheap excursion rates to those who may wish to attend from other points.
Admission, 50 cents; children under 12 years, 25 cents. After 3 p. m., 25 cents to witness game of ball.

"The Dull Thrud."

The above is the title of a pamphlet which has been issued from this office and is now ready for delivery to the public. It embraces a history of all hangings in Christian county—ten in number—together with a sketch of the life and career of Jordan Taylor, his confessions, his trial and conviction, etc. The book will contain about 25 pages and will be illustrated with portraits of Taylor and of Sheriff Boyd, who will officiate as his executioner next Friday. The book will be sold at 25 cents and can be had at this office or the news stands.

Hanging at Clarksville.

Wm. Morrow, a white man, was hanged at Clarksville, Tenn., at 2:14 p. m. Friday, for the murder of a negro named Jim Brown. Life was extinct in 17 minutes after the drop fell but the body was not cut down for 25 minutes. Morrow mounted the scaffold with composure and met death with great indifference. He left a written confession in which he admitted having killed Jim Brown for attempting to outrage his sister and having also killed Dick Overton for a similar offense against his little daughter. He declared that these were the only crimes of which he had ever been guilty.

The following persons, says the Tobacco Leaf, were all who were authorized to witness the execution, which was in the jail yard:
"Officers and assistants, Sheriff J. M. Collier, C. W. Staton, Matt Carroll, Alex. Stafford, Jno. Osborn, J. L. Stafford, Clergyman—Dr. A. D. Sears, Physicians—Dr. D. F. Wright and J. L. Marble. Prisoners' friends—P. G. Johnson, W. T. Mulligan, M. Savage. Sheriff's friends—F. E. Abbott, Randolph Shelton, James H. Smith. M. V. Ingram, representing American, Irvine Mather, representing Nashville Union, and J. B. Clark, representing Nashville Banner. Representatives of the city press—Paul Wyatt, Chronicle; G. M. Bell, Democrat; W. W. Barksdale, Tobacco Leaf. The Sheriff and his deputy from Christian county and the Sheriff of Logan county were also present."

Called Meeting.

Hopkinsville Lodge No. 37 F. & A. M. will meet in called communication at its hall in Hopkinsville, Ky., at 9:30 o'clock A. M., Wednesday, June 24th, 1885. Members of sister lodges cordially invited to attend and join in the procession to the Fair Grounds.
W. W. CLARKE, W. M.
R. W. NORWOOD, Secretary.

A Burksville correspondent of the Columbia Spectator says a sewing-machine agent named D. B. Harris came to that town about twelve months ago, and in a short time made the acquaintance of a Miss McConmas whom he soon married. It has recently been discovered that he was a married man at the time of his second marriage. The father of Miss McConmas was so wrought upon by his daughter's misfortune that he shot himself and will probably die. Harris escaped.

The brickwork on the Main Street buildings is done up to the second floors. There will be eight store-rooms ready for occupancy by September. Four of them are already engaged by the same parties who formerly occupied them.

Mr. Ovie McLeod, of Todd county, near Trenton, had his stable and corn-crib burned by incendiaries last Wednesday night. Loss about $150, with no insurance.

Rev. Miss Bartlett has been earnestly requested to return to our city to preach during this week.

SPECIAL LOCALS.

Enterprise Always Furnishes a Sure Basis of Success.

The world moves and history repeats itself. Washington, the first President of the United States, is said in history to have been the "first in the hearts of his fellow citizens." TOM EDMUNDSON is the pioneer beer vendor of Hopkinsville. He was the first to sell beer; is the first in the minds of those who drink beer, the first in the estimation of those who believe in honest dealings. In 1868 this enterprising citizen opened a little beer stand on Russellville street in this city, the dimensions of which were 7 1/2 by 30 feet, where he sold that most delightful beverage for about three years, his patronage and influence as a business man gradually increasing each successive year, afterwards conducting the same business under the store-room now occupied by Jones & Co., on Main street, and latterly at his present place of business on Nashville street, within one square of the depot.
Mr. Edmundson has been encouraged in his business career by a liberal and partial patronage. He has recently arranged and prepared his back yard for a BEER PRODUCE, a step desired to be praised, as it furnishes a neat, private and inviting place for pleasant and social conviviality. He deserves the encouragement and patronage of our people.
Call and get one of his cool, refreshing glasses of beer.

For elegant Drinks, Fine Cigars, Cold Beer and everything to be found in a first-class saloon, the Phoenix Hotel Bar cannot be surpassed.

Water Melons
—AT—
HOLLAND & RODGERS',
Main Street Fire-Proof Tobacco Warehouse,
HOPKINSVILLE, - KENTUCKY.

DAWSON WATER
—AT—
Wilson & Galbreath's.

Go to J. R. Armistead's for Paints, Oils and Varnish, also Drugs, Medicines, etc. STOCK LARGE and prices low.

WANTED
To buy a small farm, say 75 acres, near the city, would exchange city property. Apply at this office.

Choice Florida Water Melons on ice at Wilson & Galbreath's.

FOR SALE! Cottage House with 2 1/2 acres of ground, located in southern portion of the city. Apply to R. F. West at McCamy, Bonte & Co's.

NOW IS THE TIME!
Having a larger supply of finished monuments on hand than I wish to carry, I will sell the same at reduced prices for the next sixty days. Buy now and save thirty per cent.

ANDREW HALL,
Hopkinsville, Ky.
Cor. Virginia and Spring Sts.

SAM JONES!

The place to get the best is what the people want to find out and right here we want to tell you something in that line. C. W. Ducker's Carriage Shop is the place to get your repairing on all kinds of Vehicles done in the best and most substantial manner. He works none but first-class workmen, therefore he turns out nothing but the best work. His prices are very reasonable.

FOR RENT.

The new and commodious store-room in the Withers building, corner Main and Nashville streets, will be rented upon very reasonable terms. Apply to Henry & Payne.

OPERA HOUSE!

CLOSING OF THE SEASON.

Monday Eve, June 29.

The Greatest Living Elocutionist

Mr. James E. Murdoch.

As this is Mr. Murdoch's farewell tour, our people will never again have an opportunity of hearing him.
RESERVED SEATS, 50 Cts.
GALLERY, 25 Cts.
Seats on sale Saturday, June 27, at Holland & Rodgers.

ALL OUT FOR
M. LIPSTINE'S
DRY GOODS EMPORIUM,
ON NASHVILLE STREET,
Where you will find the Largest, Most Complete and Hand-onest stock of Dry Goods, Spring Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats,
Notions, Ladies' Dress Goods and Trimmings TO MATCH.

ever brought to Hopkinsville, Ky., and guaranteed at prices lower than any house in the city. I am receiving my

SPRING STOCK,
and for beauty, quality and cheapness, my selection of goods have never been excelled. Having bought for spot cash I secured bargains never before offered. Don't purchase until you see my stock. Respectfully,
M. LIPSTINE.

MILLINERY! MILLINERY!
This Department is under the skillful supervision of MRS. CARRIE HART and MISS CLARA PRATT, and they offer the largest and most complete stock of Millinery Goods ever brought to this city. Their

SPRING HATS and BONNETS are of the very latest styles, and trimmed to suit the customer's taste. All the ladies are especially invited to call and examine their stock. Remember the place, Nashville Street under South Kentuckian Office.

S. G. BUCKNER. J. S. C. WOOLDRIDGE.

Buckner & Wooldridge,
—PROPRIETORS—
Main Street Fire-Proof Tobacco Warehouse,
MAIN STREET,
HOPKINSVILLE, - KENTUCKY.

Special attention paid to inspection and Sale of Tobacco. Liberal Advances made on Tobacco. All Tobacco advanced on will be insured at owner's expense. oct146m

H. G. ABERNATHY. H. H. ABERNATHY.
ABERNATHY & CO.,

TOBACCO
COMMISSION
MERCHANTS,
—(—)
Nashville St.
CENTRAL WAREHOUSE,
HOPKINSVILLE, - KENTUCKY.
Ample accommodations for teams and teamsters free of charge.

—FOR THE BEST—
FARMING IMPLEMENTS, WAGONS, Etc.,
—CALL ON—
L. G. WILLIAMS & CO.,
—Who Make a Specialty of—
ENGINES, SAW-MILLS,
Empire Binders & Mowers,
Hay-Rakes,
Hay Rickers, Loaders, Hay Presses, Etc.,
Anchor Brand Fertilizers.
—ALSO AGENTS FOR—
Snoedekers "Spray" Water Purifier, for cleaning rollers of mill and line.
IN OPERATION AT ICE FACTORY.
h) Best Machine and Cylinder OILS
FOR SALE.
L. G. WILLIAMS & CO.,
BRIDGE STREET,
Hopkinsville, Ky.
May-11.

When you want a new suit of clothing, remember we have a large stock for old men, young men, youths and children, we are offering special bargains in these goods, as we have a large stock bought cheap, and they will be sold for cash cheaper than they can be bought in regular clothing houses, we mean what we say, call and be convinced.

As the warm weather approaches remember we have the handsomest stock of white dress goods, etc., ever brought to the city. Hosiery, Gloves, Notions, etc., in great variety. Call and see us. Respectfully Yours,
JONES & CO.
J. D. RUSSELL
NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR CARPETS.
I have a full stock of the best Supers and Extra Supers, Cotton Chains, Etc. Then you have a select line of nice, new patterns of Tapestry Brussels,
which we guarantee are as pretty and handsome as any ever offered in this market. A full line of handsome RUGS, all of which are offered at the Lowest Prices.
We have a good stock of men's custom-made HATS, which are the very best that are made.
Also a full line of ladies' misses' and children's SHOES for winter. Men's Rubber Boots & Shoes. Ladies' Overshoes. Men's Long Rubber Over Coats. Ladies' & misses' Rubber Gossamer Circulars, and boys' Coats. A large stock of good Warm Gloves. Men's Underwear, Net Shirts and Drawers. I also have a good stock of the celebrated "Pearl Shirts," both laundered and unlaundered. Our general stock of staple is full and complete. We cordially invite all of our friends and the whole trade of the city and county to give us a call, for we thank you sincerely for your patronage.
DRY GOODS
Respectfully,
J. D. Russell.
SEPT. 12, 1884.
SAM HAWKINS & CO.
Have moved their Bar Shop to the ground floor of the
STUART BUILDING ON RUSSELLVILLE STREET,
next to the Express office, where they will be glad to see and serve their customers.

Summer Resort!
Holland & Rodgers
CONFECTIONERS,
Main St., Directly Opposite Opera House.

The handsomest ICE CREAM PARLOR in the city, which can always be found the best ICE CREAM, SHERBET, CAKE and FRESHMENTS of all kinds.
A fresh and complete stock of Confectioneries, Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Etc., always on hand. SPECIAL INCREMENTS to Country Merchants.
Fresh Baker's Bread Baked Daily.
Manufactures of Pure Sugar Stick Candy and Caramels.
WEDDING and PARTY ORDERS promptly attended to.
PRICES VERY REASONABLE.

BETHEL
Female College.

A Boarding School for Young Ladies.
The spring session was opened on Monday, Jan. 20th, 1885 and continues 20 weeks. Eight teachers, certum non eruditorum. For catalogue or information apply to J. W. RUST,
Hopkinsville.

HORSES and MULES
BOUGHT and SOLD
—AT—
Polk Casler's
Livery Feed & Sale Stable.
Auction sale of Live Stock, second and fourth Saturdays in each month. Special livery rates given to commercial men.
Russellville Street, near Main.
Come and see me.
POLK CASLER.

OPERA HOUSE!
CLOSING OF THE SEASON.
Monday Eve, June 29.
The Greatest Living Elocutionist
Mr. James E. Murdoch.
As this is Mr. Murdoch's farewell tour, our people will never again have an opportunity of hearing him.
RESERVED SEATS, 50 Cts.
GALLERY, 25 Cts.
Seats on sale Saturday, June 27, at Holland & Rodgers.

SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN.

NASHVILLE STREET.
HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

CLUB LIST.

We will furnish the following papers and periodicals with the SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN at the following cheap rates:
Weekly Courier-Journal	$2.50
Weekly Commercial	3.00
Parsons Home Journal	3.50
Petersen's Magazine	3.00
Godley's Lady's Book	3.00
New York Weekly Sun	2.10
Daily N. Y. World	2.50
Sunday-Evening Post	2.50
Atlanta Living Age	2.50
Atlanta Herald	2.50

FOR OUR YOUNG READERS.

BOBBY.

A Little Boy Who Found His Father by Running Away—His Safe Return Home.

Bobby Hotchkiss was the only son of Ronba Hotchkiss, the village blacksmith, a rough, hard-distilled man, but a steady worker and a hearty lover of notions and nonsense. Bobby was about fourteen years of age, and, as his mother expressed it, "big for his size."

Reuben Hotchkiss had decided that Bobby should follow in his footsteps, and be a blacksmith, too. He had given notice to Bobby to that effect, but the plan did not meet with the latter's approval. Bobby had a very lively imagination. The fact was, Bobby had a decided aversion to learning any trade at all. Sundry books containing adventures of sea life had fallen in his way, and he was determined to be a sailor. When he made known his intentions to his father the response he got was not exactly of a kind to encourage him. Instead of providing him with a sailor's outfit and sending him to sea at once, the matter-of-fact blacksmith gave his son to understand, in very blunt English, that if he ever mentioned the subject again he would "strap him," a very unpoetic performance, indeed.

Bobby knew that his father was a very resolute man, and not at all backward in using the strap when he chose to consider it necessary, so he took care to say nothing more in his hearing about going to sea. But he by no means relinquished his purpose. On the contrary, this purpose grew more determined than ever. So he read his old sea-stories over and over, and the blacksmith's life of Lord Nelson, and he fancied himself another hero of the Nile and Trafalgar. One day, happening to be alone in the shop for a while, the thought that was always in his mind spoke out aloud, and he began to sing:

"On a sailor's life for me,
On the big briny sea,
Where from keel to keel I'm free,
On the sea coast of the world."

"I don't know whether this rhyme was original with Bobby or not. I suppose it expressed his feelings as well as if Harry Curwain wrote it."

Another song greatly affected our young hero's imagination. It began—

"Silly little sister, she was so
Silly little sister, she was so
Silly little sister, she was so
Silly little sister, she was so."

Was not his name Bobby—or nickname? Might not he be supplied with silver buckles on shipping, and have a monument at last like that of which the boy Nelson dreamed? He thought the prophetic. The poem was so good, and he had written the following affecting lines with a pencil on a leaf torn from his father's account-book:

"Dear Mother—When you get these few lines, your Bobby will be many miles from you. Father he treats me cruel, for he thinks I am going to sea, and he says I am a West India hand. When I come home, I will bring you a sailor's outfit, and I will tell you how I have been so long at sea."

He enclosed this letter in a huge yellow envelope, and having directed it, he stole out by a round-about way to the post-office. Arrived at the office, he dropped it in the box, and then made his way out of the village across lots, as fast as his short legs would carry him.

The nearest seaport to Bobby's residence was distant about seven hundred miles. Bobby proposed to walk this distance. He had a sword and dagger in his pocket, with which to pay his expenses. By the time he had gone five or six miles his boyish enthusiasm began to cool a little. This was a grave matter, for without it he realized that his runaway courage would not last. At first he had traveled with a feeling of very much afraid that his father would come after him. As night drew near, he traveled considerably slower, and felt very much afraid his father would come after him. When it was dark he crawled under a haystack in a field, and tried to go to sleep; but he could not sleep. He was so full of ideas, and his mother rose up before him. He imagined that he saw her reading his letter. He thought he could see the look of agony on her face, and hear her sobs and wallings as she realized that her only boy was gone. And then he thought of his father, and how he would miss him. He was so full of ideas, and his mother rose up before him. He imagined that he saw her reading his letter. He thought he could see the look of agony on her face, and hear her sobs and wallings as she realized that her only boy was gone. And then he thought of his father, and how he would miss him.

"Of course he'll be coming back when he gets tired and hungry," said the unsentimental mother.

"He'll be here inside of twenty-four hours," said the father.

Even small Sister Katy thought the same, and did not appear to have a bit more sentment than the rest.

At last morning came, and our young runaway crawled out from under the haystack tired and disheartened. He was disheartened of a sailor's life already. But at the same time he could hardly make up his mind to go back. His father had not been punished enough yet, he thought. Uncertain what to do, he approached a house not far off to try and procure something to eat.

"I'd like to get a loaf of bread," he said to a big, red-faced woman, who came to the door in answer to his knock.

"You would, hey?" said the lady. "I guess there's many a person in the same line. Bread's scarce now, an' it's no use tryin' to give away a stinkin' chap like you."

"I didn't want you to give it to me," said Bobby. "I'd pay for it."

"You would, would you?" said the woman. "S'posin' you show me your money before I climb down cellar."

Bobby put his hands into his pockets, and then he discovered that his money was gone. He was so full of ideas, and his mother rose up before him. He imagined that he saw her reading his letter. He thought he could see the look of agony on her face, and hear her sobs and wallings as she realized that her only boy was gone. And then he thought of his father, and how he would miss him.

sister to scream with delight and welcome him to their arms.

"What! trying to run away, was ye?" This is the way you're at your parents," cried Mrs. Hotchkiss.

The father said nothing, but Bobby saw him stop the horse and get out of the buggy, and he had reason to guess what his silence meant. In a second the rough blacksmith and his boy were calling to the red-faced woman, who had come down to the road to see what the matter was, "this is my son. He's been tryin' to run away, and I've just caught him. If ye'll set him to work in the house, and keep an eye on him till I come back, I'll give ye half a dollar."

"Well, I never!" said Mrs. Hotchkiss. "Then that's your boy, Mr. Hotchkiss? Wouldn't a thought it. But I'll see to him."

Poor Bobby! If there was anywhere in the world that he liked to go it was to the house of his father, and there he was in shame and disgrace, guarded by a red-faced woman, who set him in a corner of the kitchen and kept him pining and cutting apples all day.

Bobby returned safely. He had found the world unsentimental and cold. "Aren't you worried, mother?" he asked.

"I never had a doubt that you would come back, and be wiser," she replied. "Nor I," said his sister.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

His father said nothing at all. Bobby looked at the patches on his knees, and thought of the silver buckles that might have been there, but he never said a word. They were all silent. They were all silent. They were all silent.

even appear to assume a position in justification of her use of such powers. When Mahomet was struck down at the battle of Ohad it was a young Arab, a woman who stood over him and fought valiantly with him and slayed him in the half-keeping back the enemy until she herself was disabled by a severe wound in the shoulder. Still it must be observed that among the very famous warriors of the Arab world, who appeared after the death of the Prophet, all did not fight in a strictly orthodox cause. We need not refer to the prophetesses like Sufjah, or female leaders of schismatic movements—some of whom displayed great personal bravery and were treated with shocking courtesy. They will confine themselves to a brief mention of some other renowned female warriors who went into battle to engage in hand-to-hand fighting.

In the first century of the Hegira two remarkable women fell, sword in hand, and were buried in the same tomb, respectively the mother and the young wife of Chobbi, who aspired to win the Caliphate by force of arms in the days of Abdel Melik. Chobbi was perhaps the finest soldier of his time; he won many victories, and his mother, Razah, who fought always by his side, was a brave and capable warrior. She made a vow to recite the second and third chapters of the Koran in the Mosque of Kufa while that city was in the possession of the imperial troops. The second chapter (Sura of the Cow) contains 286 verses; the third 200. Razah and her daughter, consequently, forced a passage through the ranks of Kufa, galloped to the mosque and, after the vow had been accomplished, cut their way out again. Several times in battle the young woman attacked the Governor of Irak, the famous Hammad, and she was killed by him. The army of the Caliph finally overcame Hammad, and Razah and her daughter were buried in the same tomb. In the second century of the Hegira lived the famous Dolhemah, or Zaf-el-Hemmah, whose name signifies "blue-heart," the most renowned warrior of the history of Islam, and the heroine of an enormous Arabian epic. There was scarcely a siege or battle during the reigns of El Mahady, El Hady, and of Haroun-al-Raschid in which she did not take part. Joan of Arc could not have compared with her; the huge woman in which her deeds are recorded pictures her rather as a rival of that wonderful type in the Nibelungen, Brunhild. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed, during the reign of El-Raschid, the Caliph, the Kharijites, El-Wady, was killed in battle, his young sister, Alfarah—a famous warrior—was killed, and her body was buried in the same tomb as that of her brother. It does not appear that the men to whom such women were opposed always lacked the true spirit of chivalry. Indeed,